Press Release

6/28/12

The conclusion of a several month long crack cocaine investigation came to an end this morning at approximately 7:30 AM, when Barnstable Detectives took custody of Denise J. Rogers as she returned to her apartment at 34 Yarmouth Rd., Hyannis after working the night shift as a CNA at a Harwich Nursing Home. Rogers, a 49 year old female, is well known to Barnstable Detectives from previous drug investigations, including a cocaine trafficking case in 2006 in which she was found guilty and served 2½ years in prison. Upon execution of the warrant, Detectives discovered 58 grams of crack cocaine hidden in the food pantry of her apartment. The street value of the drugs is estimated to be over $6,000. In addition, police found approximately $1,470 in cash hidden in her bedroom closet. Rogers was subsequently placed under arrest again for Trafficking Cocaine 28 – 100 grams. The minimum sentence if found guilty of this charge is 5 years state prison, up to 20 years to serve. Rogers is being held at the Barnstable County House of Correction on $10,000 bail.
